

Heatmap visualization of gene expression data across 120 samples. The color scale ranges from black (low expression) to red (high expression). The heatmap shows a clear pattern of alternating high and low expression across the samples, with a prominent red band in the first 24 samples and a black band in the last 24 samples.