

Heatmap visualization of gene expression data across 120 samples. The color scale ranges from red (low expression) to green (high expression). The heatmap shows a clear pattern of alternating high and low expression across the samples, with a prominent vertical band of high expression (green) around sample 120.